John Henry Millett.

John Henry Millett died at his home in Millettsville, Saturday afternoon. Mr.
Millett had been sick several months with a complication of diseases, and his naturally strong constitution made a brave fight. A few days before his death it was thought he had a shock.

Mr. Millett was one of the substantial farmers of this town and his hearty bluff manner made him a friend to every one who knew him. His large farm of some five hundred acres is one of the finest and best equipped in town. He was made farming the business of his life and he has made of it a success.

He was born in Norway, April 4, 1825, his parents being Col. John and Abigail (Parsons) Millett, who were also lifelong residents of Norway. Mr. Millett was one of a family of eight children, all of whom have died. He lived at the parental home till 1848, when gold was discovered in California. He and his brothers went to California, where he was not very successful and returned to Norway. After his marriage he bought the farm where he has since lived.

Nov. 25, 1858, he married Sarah Elizabeth Rice, daughter of Eben Rice, Jr., of Waterbury and Elizabeth (Fry) Rice, a native of Fryeburg. Six children were born to them, four of whom are now living—Mrs. Mary A. Millett, the wife of Frank Millett, lives on a farm near her parents; Jonathan S. Millett and John Henry Millett, Jr., live on the home farm.

They are engaged in farming, stock raising and dairying; Sarah Elizabeth Millett is engaged in teaching in the schools in Norway, and spends much of the time when not teaching at home.

There have been many by the name of Millett, residents of the town of Norway, and they are among its oldest and most influential citizens.

Mr. Millett and all his family are members of the Norway Grange. In politics he has always been a Democrat.

The funeral was from his late residence, Tuesday forenoon at 10 o'clock.
Rev. B. S. Rideout of the Congregational church, their pastor, officiating. The interment was in Pine Grove cemetery.

The large attendance and floral offerings spoke of the esteem in which he was held.

Golden Wedding.

Last Saturday occurred the 50th anniversary of the marriage of Francis F.
Stevens and wife at their residence on Tucker street.

This was a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Stevens and the occasion was doubly enjoyable to all for this reason.

Phonographic selections were given and refreshments served, the most notable of the latter being a very large wedding cake.

Among those present were five children, four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The children presented Mr. and Mrs.
Stevens each with a large easy chair and the occasion will long be remembered by those present as one of rare enjoyment.

T. J. Muirhead has gone to Auburn to work.

Harry Rust Post and Relief Corp are invited to meet with Wm. K. Kimball Post at South Paris, for a social, entertainment, on the night of the 25th of January. Leave here on the 6 o'clock car.

There will be an entertainment at the Pierce schoolhouse, Saturday evening, Feb. 1, Katherine Towne, teacher. It stays it will be postponed till the following Friday, Feb. 7. Everybody invited.

Howard Crockett, who has been employed at C. N. Tubbs & Son's store for some time, leaves Saturday night. He goes in the near future to Richmond to join his parents, who recently removed to that place.

Our Philadelphia correspondent, O.
Warren Browne, reports that Freehold Howe, Jr., works as a chemical expert in the water bureau of that city. He also reports having met B. F. Fausch at the Bingham House, the other evening.

We want copies of the ADVERTISER printed in Norway in August or September, 1856. Will pay $5.00 for copy containing the State Treasurer's sale of wild land for that year. We want to borrow the paper and will return it to you.

The Veranda Club met, last Thursday, with Mrs. Jesse Edwards. Many of the ladies of the village have given the club sewing, etc., the proceeds of which add a considerable amount to the treasury, and all money is used for charitable purposes.

Right Excellent Deputy Grand High Priest H. D. Smith left town, Tuesday morning, to visit chapters at Damariscotta, Bar Harbor and Hallowell. Lula Tuell of West Paris is assisting Miss Pike at the National Bank during the cashier's absence.

The New England Order of Protection and Pilgrim Fathers held a joint social at the home of Roswell Frost, Tuesday evening. About fifty members of the two orders attended, going and coming in sleighs. A beautiful repast was served during the evening.

Ariza and E. Sanborn, who left here for Hawaii some time since, have arrived at Douglas, that State, purchased a lot of land and are erecting a cabin. A letter has recently been received by friends in which it states that board in that vicinity is $9 per week.

Frank Pike has accepted a position as collector for the International Correspondence School in this vicinity, but is still night operator at the Eastern Telephone exchange. Mr. Pike was in Bridgton and Harrison, Saturday, on business connected with the school.

J. Waldo Nash, taxidermist, has made arrangements for space for an exhibit at the Sportsmen's Show in Boston, commencing Feb. 22. He has not yet fully completed the arrangements with the managers of the Sportsmen's Show in New York to be held in March but probably he will attend.

A runaway accident occurred, Monday, but no serious damage was done.
Charles Partridge of Norway Lake had come to the village on business and had left his horse and sled near the depot while he transacted his business nearby.
Shortly after leaving his team the horse started and ran to Main street, thence up Bridge to Orchard, where at the lower end he was caught.

Merchants' Day Contemplated.

As there is to be half fare on the Grand Trunk tickets good coming to Norway on any train Tuesday, Feb. 4, and good to return on any train, Wednesday, the merchants are thinking of making this a special trade day.

All persons interested are requested to meet at the Smiley Shoe Store at 7.30 p. m., Friday evening, Jan. 24, to talk over and consider the matter and see what arrangements can be made.

It is hoped there will be a good attendance as this is an excellent opportunity for people living along the Grand Trunk Railway to visit Norway at a low price.

Tickets for one fare and return will be sold from Portland to Berlin, N. H., inclusive.

Norway 2, South Paris 0.

The Norway and Paris high schools played a warm game of polo in "the cove" near where Walker & Son are harvesting their ice, last Saturday afternoon.

cially fine work and much toward winning the game.

The following is the line-up of the two teams:

NORWAY.
Goal—Mann.
Half-back—Cotton.
Backs—Fry, Bodkin, Palmer.
Centre—Cole.

SOUTH PARIS.

1st goal, by Finley, 5 min. (1st half). 2nd goal by Finley, 13 min. (2nd half). Fouls—Rounds, Burnell.

Palmer played in Bodkin's place during 2nd half.

Minstrels at the Opera House.

I. W. Marshall's Minstrels played at the Opera House, Monday evening, giving a very good entertainment.

The company held a street parade during the noon hour and a concert in the square before the entertainment, and 8 o'clock saw a fair-sized house. The entertainment introduced several specialties. The imitation "row" and the impersonation of a lady singer were especially good, but the whole show, for that matter, was "all right." The company's orchestra furnished music.

Excursion Train for Clerks' Ball.

The Grand Trunk will sell round trip tickets for one fare from stations between Portland and Berlin, inclusive, to arrive, Tuesday, Feb. 4. Tickets good on any train, Tuesday, and good for return on any train, Wednesday.

Plan your business so as to come to Norway on those days, even if you don't attend the ball, you can visit the stores and do shopping.

Emma Smith has been ill of late, but is improving.

C. L. Hathaway visited Rumford
Falls, this week.

Norway had 52 deaths, 53 births and 29 marriages in 1901.

Daniel S. Davis has bought the "Chas.
G. Knight place on Beal street.

Stella Prince is with her mother who is seriously sick at her home in Turner.

class historian for class of 1902, Colby College.

recently had charge of the Bennett tavern, Gilead, have been visiting friends in this vicinity, this week.

Ridlon's grocery store, of LaRue, Vtigue, who were married, Monday afternoon, are visit Saco, Skowhegan, and other places in Maine, and are expected to return, next Monday.

French, William Thibodeau of Norway, and J. H. Dyer and M. E. Brown of Portland who spent a few days in town at that time, formed a party one day last week and went to Mr. Woodman's camp where they enjoyed a fine dinner which Mr. Woodman furnished.

Geo. W. Carter, the Auburn agent of the United Shoe Machinery Co., has just installed a "pulling over machine" at the Radcliffe shoe shop. Only a few of these machines are now in operation, but it works well, and probably in a few years the "pulling over" will be a thing of the past.

Geo. W. Millett was publisher of the Norway ADVERTISER in 1856. We will give $5.00 for a copy of the paper printed that year which contains the State Treasurer's notice of sale of wild lands.
It was printed in August or September, 1856. See if you can find a copy of the Norway ADVERTISER of that date and get the five dollars.

We have received the following from a subscriber of the ADVERTISER at Providence, R. I. "I listened to a very practical and interesting sermon at Plymouth Congregational church, Sunday morning, delivered by the Rev. B. S.
Rideout of Norway. We were particularly attracted to hear it, having ourselves come from the dear old town, Woodstock and Albany.

The S. D. Andrews furniture and music store had under consideration, the past week, the leasing of the Welch store in Opera House block on Main street. It is understood that nothing definite has been decided, but that with the opening of the spring trade some arrangements will be made for a store on Main street large enough to accommodate the business.

We hear two Norway women were lamenting, last week, because they did not know a new store in our village had been doing business a month or more.
Better subscribe for your home paper, large or small, or write your husbands to do so, and then you will know what is going on about you. Other places may have bigger news, but no news interests us so much as the news in the place where we live.

Norway Municipal Court.

Dell Arno and Abner Benson got an invoice of liquor and celebrated, one afternoon and evening last week. They created a disturbance on Water street at Mr. Durban's, complaint was made and officer Cross arrested them. The court imposed a fine of $5.00 and costs which for the two amounted to $18.00. It was paid.

Changes in Price of Corn.

C. B. Cummings & Sons have looked back through their books and have given us the selling price of corn on the first day of November for the past 17 years.

The lowest price was 38 cents per bushel in 1897, the year before it was a half cent more. The highest price was in 1900, when a bushel of corn sold for 77 1/2 cents. The average price for the 17 years, recorded Nov. 1st as sold by C. B. Cummings & Sons is fifty-seven and eleven-sevenths cents per bushel.

The following show prices for each year:
Nov. 1, 1884, 57 1/2 Nov. 1, 1894, 67 1/2 1885, 58 1/2 1895, 68 1/2

Norway & Paris Street Railway.

The gross earnings for the year ending June 30, 1901, were $5,458.50; operating expenses, $4,924.31. This leaves $534.23 for the net earnings. Taxes and interest—5 per cent, on $15,000—$2,250.68, shows a deficit for the year of $419.45.
The operating expenses for the year have been reduced $448.55 over the previous year.
The falling off in receipts from passengers in the past year was $1,030.55.

The B. W. whist club was to have met last evening (Thursday) with Mortie French, but owing to illness has been postponed to next Wednesday evening.

Don't be bashful about giving us the news, even if it is about yourself. Our readers want to know about it. Send in the items—remember and sign your name.

The W. C. T. U. Mothers' Club will meet at the home of Dr. Annette Bennett on Main Street, Wednesday, Jan. 29, at 2.30 p. m. All women will be cordially welcome.

Rev. B. F. Fickett of the Methodist church of Norway will exchange pulpits, this coming Sunday, with Rev. A. W.
Pottle, pastor of the South Paris Methodist church.

Walter Chandler is with his parents,
Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Chandler, at Bethel.
It will be remembered his parents took his children to their home after the death of his wife.

Last Friday was Mother's Day in the Advance and Middle Primary rooms, giving the fifty mothers present an opportunity of seeing the work their children are now doing in the schools.

Two boilers in the lumber mill of Dr.
A. Thompson at Davis, Vt., exploded, a few days ago, and the work was injured. The boilers were considered safe and had just been inspected.

Capt. Edmund Ames is confined to the house, this winter, by the disease he has had a long time, consumption. His daughter Lizzie is also sick at her father's with the same disease. It is hoped by the Captain's many friends that with warm weather his health may improve, though he is now very sick. This family have been so unfortunate as to have had a great deal of sickness extending over many years, but the sick ones have always had the best of care. The amount of care, anxiety and work that has been accomplished by Mrs. Ames would have crushed a less brave woman.

Jan. 7, Harry Rust Relief Corps, No.
45, installed these officers in the presence of the Post and visiting friends:

Pres.—Mrs. Lizzie Edwards.
S. V. P.—Katherine Cox.

After the installation the Post, Corps, and friends partook of cake and coffee.

Geo. W. Winslow shows us a copy of the Portland Daily Advertiser published Dec. 6, 1858, in which is a two square advertisement of J. E. Budden, merchant tailor. This was 43 years ago last December and he was located in "chancelor corner of W. Main and Union streets" and had a choice assortment of "broad-cloths, doeskins, cassimeres and vestings." A fine black frock coat cost $15 and a silk vest $5. Mr. Budden until the past summer has been tailoring for the F. H. Moxley Co. of this town but owing to failing health has given up his situation there, though he occasionally helps out a little in the shop now.

Ernest Maxim's horse did the springing act, Monday, and as a result Maxim is minus a sleigh. Mr. Maxim lives in South Paris but is employed in the shoe shop in this town. He drives back and forth and during working hours leaves his horse and sleigh in Mase Kilgore's barn. He was just ready to start for home and had left his team to go back and close the barn door. The noise frightened the horse, which started on a mad run, only stopping after having reached Mr. Maxim's pasture in South Paris. The sleigh was badly smashed and the harness broken, but the horse escaped practically uninjured.

Never thought of such a sign for a medicine did you? Well, it's a good sign for Scott's Emulsion. The body has to be repaired like other things and Scott's Emulsion is the medicine that does it.

These poor bodies wear out from worry, from over-work, from disease. They get thin and weak. Some of the new ones are not well made—and all of the old ones are racked from long usage.

Scott's Emulsion fixes all kinds. It does the work both inside and out. It makes soft bones hard, thin blood red, weak lungs strong, hollow places full. Only the best materials are used in the patching and the patches don't show through the new glow of health.

No one has to wait his turn. You can do it yourself—and the bottle.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle.

An Honest Policy.

While journeying thro' life, aye hold this little rule in view. To never, never say a thing that can be proved untrue. If your statements do not fit the lines of veracity has grooved. Be sure the deviations of your speech cannot be proved. You'd find it plenty grievous. 'Cause I'd scorn to say a thing That could be proved untrue. For fear 'twould be discovered And they'd reckon me with you. CORA M. W. GREENLEAF.

Life's Changes.

Humorous and Otherwise. How manners change, and customs, too, While we are growing old; The words we speak, the accents new, Are up-to-date we're told. These interesting tales of old To be found out in a lie, You better try to imitate Such paragon as I. 'Cause I'd scorn to say a thing That could be proved untrue. For fear 'twould be discovered And they'd reckon me with you. CORA M. W. GREENLEAF.

Our friends have passed the school, When five and one-half days of work Did come by like a bolt.

With children scarce, and none in sight, What can poor mortals do? Remedy. You can buy it at any druggist's for $1.00, and it will drive away all the unnatural feelings at once. Minute Guns.

I heard one of the best McKinley stories the other day that I ever listened to. When the late President and party went West many months before he was shot Mrs. McKinley, it will be remembered, went, too. While talking with Mr. Scott one day, the room whose firm built the Oregon, Mrs. McKinley said: "Oh! do you play cribbage, Mr. Scott?"

"Yes," was the great shipbuilder's answer.

"Well so do I," said Mrs. McKinley, "I wish you would play a game with me."

"I should be delighted to do so," was the reply.

Later, as President McKinley and Mr. Scott were looking over the latter's big plant, Mrs. McKinley not being present, the President said:

"Oh! by the way, Mr. Scott, didn't I hear you and Mrs. McKinley arranging to play cribbage some time?"

"Yes," said Mr. Scott; "we are going to play."

"Well, what kind of a player are you?" asked the President.

"Oh! pretty fair, I guess; I play a pretty good game."

"Well, so do I," said Mr. McKinley. "But do you know, it may seem strange, but it is a fact, that I have never been able to play well enough to beat Mrs. McKinley." As he said this he looked at Mr. Scott with a significant smile.

Their eyes met, it was as though Mr. Scott understood, and it is safe to say that he did not beat Mrs. McKinley.

I doubt if a better illustration of Mr. McKinley's constant consideration for the comfort and pleasure of his invalid wife could be found.—[Boston Journal.

Ascribed to Bacillus.

The cause of your hair turning gray has been discovered by M. Metchnikoff, a Paris bacteriologist, if his claim be allowed. He ascribes it to a bacillus, which devours the coloring pigment. He has christened this "pigmentophagus." He says it is a voracious feeder and proliferates with an activity approximating perpetual motion. The bacillus resists the action of youth keeps it down, but low vitality arising from care, grief, moral shock or sedentary life favors its growth and multiplication.

M. Metchnikoff is studying means to combat it, and doubtless he will succeed as well as the numerous cure sales that the most of us try on at frequent intervals.

Give Your Mind to It.

People are often counselled to give their whole mind to business. They cannot succeed, it is said, if their wits are wool-gathering and they fail to employ all their powers. Certainly that is wholesome counsel, but it applies equally well to pleasure as to business. One reason why some people never enjoy much is that they never really give their minds to it.

At a dinner party or evening company, where they should enter into the spirit of the occasion, they drag along their minds as if they were on a business problem, and they are stupid to themselves and to others. If they are out for a drive, instead of giving themselves up to the management of the horse, the delights of the country, and the satisfaction of pleasant conversation with a companion, they are sullen or abstracted, dwelling over some problem, which for the time, they should put aside.

If we do not mistake, one reason for wrinkles and cross-eyes is that women, especially married women, with household cares, so seldom make a business of having a good time. The moments and hours that were designed for the refreshment, that comes far more from happiness than rest, are crowded with cares that ought to be strictly confined to their own department.

Happy men and women, like good ships, are constructed on the principle of watertight compartments.

Educated Dairyman Wanted.

In the course of the last six months a great many letters have been received which may be summarized as follows: "Wanted a young man competent to take charge a dairy of 25 or 30 cows. The man must understand modern methods and have both energy and ambition. I have a large farm, excellently situated for the dairy business, and will pay a young man, competent to take charge of it, from $20 to $30 a month, and when he leaves he is in a position to earn $30 or $40 a week, with it very strange that the farmer's boys do not more freely avail themselves of the splendid possibilities which a course of practical instruction in dairying opens up to them.

During the past winter I have a half a dozen letters have been received, offering to give competent young men an interest in a dairy business, once they proved capable of managing it successfully. What an opportunity for the young men! A Macedonian cry has gone up all over the south for educated dairymen. Splendid openings are available and no one to fill them. Young men who imagine that their condition is circumscribed, cease lamenting and go to work and fit yourselves as dairymen and you can find maddening and remunerative employment and avenues of wealth and prosperity of which you never dreamed, will open up to you on every hand.—[University of Tennessee.

No More Parlors.

A delightful change has come in house furnishing.

Parlors are being done away with. The word is apt to conjure up a vision of ornate, impossible gilt frame chairs, with satin seats, a cabinet with shells and other bric-a-brac; perhaps a wax cross under a glass case.

This sacred room in former years has occupied the front of the house, and was over the south for educated dairymen. Splendid openings are available and no one to fill them. Young men who imagine that their condition is circumscribed, cease lamenting and go to work and fit yourselves as dairymen and you can find maddening and remunerative employment and avenues of wealth and prosperity of which you never dreamed, will open up to you on every hand.—[University of Tennessee.

But the bright, light room is devoted to the comfort of the family. The piano, a couch, a big table with a lamp and plenty of space on it for magazines and books, big easy chairs, simple curtains and a fire are the other essentials to complete this cozy sitting room.

The sensible housekeeper realizes that her visitors would far rather be shown into this room than into a stiff reception room which gives no idea of the family life.

The husband and children are certainly far happier with such an arrangement than when the largest and pleasantest room in the house was reserved for visitors.

The husband is apt to spend his evenings at home where a bright fire is blazing merrily in the sitting room, a well-built the Oregon, Mrs. McKinley said: "Oh! do you play cribbage, Mr. Scott?"

"Yes," was the great shipbuilder's answer.

"Well so do I," said Mrs. McKinley, "I wish you would play a game with me."

Death of Hannah Blaisdell.
A shade of gloom was thrown over this community by the sudden death of Mrs. Hannah Blaisdell which occurred Thursday morning of last week. She was apparently as well as usual Tuesday forenoon, at a good dinner and worked about the house. She was taken sick in the afternoon, two doctors were summoned and everything done that could be but she passed away Thursday morning.

The deceased has always lived a busy and active life, ever ready to help the sick or any one in trouble, and will be greatly missed in this community. She moved from South Berwick to the place where she died, fifty-five years ago with her husband, Jeremiah Blaisdell, who died five years ago.

At the end of the fall term to prepare papers on the same which the superintendent would forward to the State superintendent, W. W. Stetson for his examination and commendation. The teachers heartily approved of the plan. At the end of the term the papers were prepared, collected and forwarded to the State superintendent. A letter of commendation has just been received from him, after his examination of the papers, speaking of the valuable matter contained in them and expressing his approval of their efforts, and the hope that they will continue in the work and become familiar with the historic State of Maine. NORWAY AND VICINITY

Eightieth Birthday.
Mrs. Susan Parsons Preble has recently celebrated her 80th birthday at her home in Auburn. Her parents were Solomon Rowe and Hannah Millett of Norway, who settled in Danville soon after their marriage in 1821, where they resided for forty years, and where their nine children were born, all living at the present time.

Susan P. Rowe, the eldest, was born January 6, 1822. Her grandmother on the maternal side, Susanna Parsons, came from a family of nine sisters and four brothers, being the first settlers of Norway. She married Samuel L. Preble of New Gloucester, who was drowned in Gorham, N. H., at the time of the great freshet in 1869. Her early married life was passed in Norway. For the last forty-three years she has resided in Danville, and Spring street, Auburn.

She has two daughters, Calista A. Preble, who was a successful teacher in the public schools for several years, and Esther E. Preble, who lives in Auburn. Her sisters are Mrs. Elizabeth J. Waitt, West Acton, Mass., and Mrs. H. Abby Rowe, Danville Junction. Four brothers live in Boston, Solomon S., Joseph H., Morris B. and Calvin A. Rowe. N. S. Rowe resides in South Paris and Jason F. Rowe in Norway.

For nearly twenty years she has been much of the time in her home, having suffered from a broken hip, which necessitated the use of two crutches. She also became nearly blind from cataracts, in these later years, but they have been successfully removed by absorption and now, at the age of eighty, she is able to read, write and sew without glasses. She retains her faculties to a remarkable degree.

A Plea for the Feeble-Minded of Maine.

According to the census of 1890 Maine has an aggregate of 1,501 feeble-minded persons. Nine of this number are being supported by the State at the Massachusetts School for the Feeble-Minded at Waverly, Mass., at the rate of three hundred dollars each per year. For the rest we are doing practically nothing.

From a purely economical standpoint, would it not be cheaper to take the $2,700 which we are paying Massachusetts each year and add to it an amount sufficient to start a school of our own, and thus enable more than nine children to receive the care and training we owe the feeble-minded?

We are caring for the insane, and we have our Reform Schools for boys, Industrial School for girls, School for the Deaf and various Orphan's Homes, but we seem to forget the duty which we owe this class of defectives and they are left to roam at large, untaught, where they are a menace and expense to the community.

In the schools for the feeble minded, and there are now twenty-three State institutions in the United States, they are taught in books if they are capable of learning, particular attention being paid to the manual and industrial training, which is a very important factor in the training of the feeble-minded.

A feeble-minded person can never become self-supporting, but needs supervision and care as long as he lives. If this protection cannot be furnished by the friends in the home, it should be offered by the State in the form of a school or home. Massachusetts realizes this, and has already purchased a tract of land of nearly two thousand acres so that they can transfer their adults from the school at Waverly to a permanent home constructed on the colony plan.

At very many of our almshouses one or more feeble-minded person can be found, and if we took the trouble to investigate, we would find that many of the arrests and cases that come before our courts, are from the so-called "feeble" class. We surely can never overcome poverty and crime and uplift humanity until we make some provision for this class.

New Hampshire is establishing a home for the feeble minded just outside of Leconia. The State has bought two or three adjacent farms and suitable buildings will be built. It is in a quiet place but near enough to the city so they can have the telephone, electric lights, power and other modern conveniences. It would not be best to establish an institution of this kind in a large town. Norway has many places that would make a delightful home school of this kind. We could offer good location, could furnish all electric lights, etc.

$10,000 Suit.

In the suit Howard T. Glover of Hebron vs Portland, Rumford Falls R. R., tried in the Cumberland Supreme Court last week, the plaintiff in $10,000 is Howard T. Glover, a farmer and teamster, who was injured while unloading freight at the West Minot station, Nov. 21, 1899.

He and his brother, Edwin Glover, had been employed to transport a boiler and heating apparatus from the railroad station to the new dormitory of Hebron Academy. They were at work in the box car on a side track, and while thus engaged the plaintiff was injured by reason of another car being forcefully shunted against the car in which the men were at work. Two large sections of the boiler weighing from 300 to 500 pounds fell upon the plaintiff, crushing his left leg below the knee. For 18 months he was unable to perform any manual labor. The injured leg was amputated below the knee four months after the injury, the operation taking place in the Maine Eye and Ear Infirmary, Portland.

Mr. Glover received a verdict of $7,379.16. The defendant company will take the case to the law court on exceptions.

Our Schools.
State Superintendent Stetson has stated that the cost of providing free text books for the use of the pupils in the public schools of Maine, average about ninety-eight cents a year per pupil. In 1900 there were 139,000 pupils enrolled in the state and the average attendance was 100,000. The state law compels towns to furnish text books free. The total cost, therefore, last year was about $100,000 which was paid by the towns.

That average seems well-nigh incredible. Still to glance at some of the school books now in use in the schools would seem as if a valuation of a dollar the dozen would be about the fair thing.

Dropped into the Brook.

D. Scott Brackett got a pair of horses and a load of wood into Greely brook recently. He had been hauling wood across the brook for several days and the ice seemed firm and all right but suddenly it simply snapped and let him in. It seems that the ice in the brook stopped the flow of water and backed up the water, ice formed and after it had thawed out and the water drained off it left a shell of ice about three feet above the water, which gave way and precipitated the team into the brook. The horses were got out but one had frost bitten ears.

TONIKO-TEA CURES INDIGESTION.

Can't Sleep.

Sleeplessness or insomnia is due to nervousness sometimes; or it may be caused by indigestion or constipation. In any case the stomach is back of it all. You never heard of a man who ate heartily, whose food digested properly and was regular in his personal habits, complain of not being able to sleep. Sleep will come naturally if you make perfect health possible.

TONIKO-TEA and health mean just the same thing. Wherever you find TONIKO-TEA you will find health, and the converse is almost as true. TONIKO-TEA taken according to directions regularly for one week will induce natural, easy, restful slumber.
